TWO EXERCISES

Consider an object. Call what is not the object "other."

EXERCISE: Add to the object, from the "other," another object, to form a new object and a new "other."
Repeat until there is no more "other."

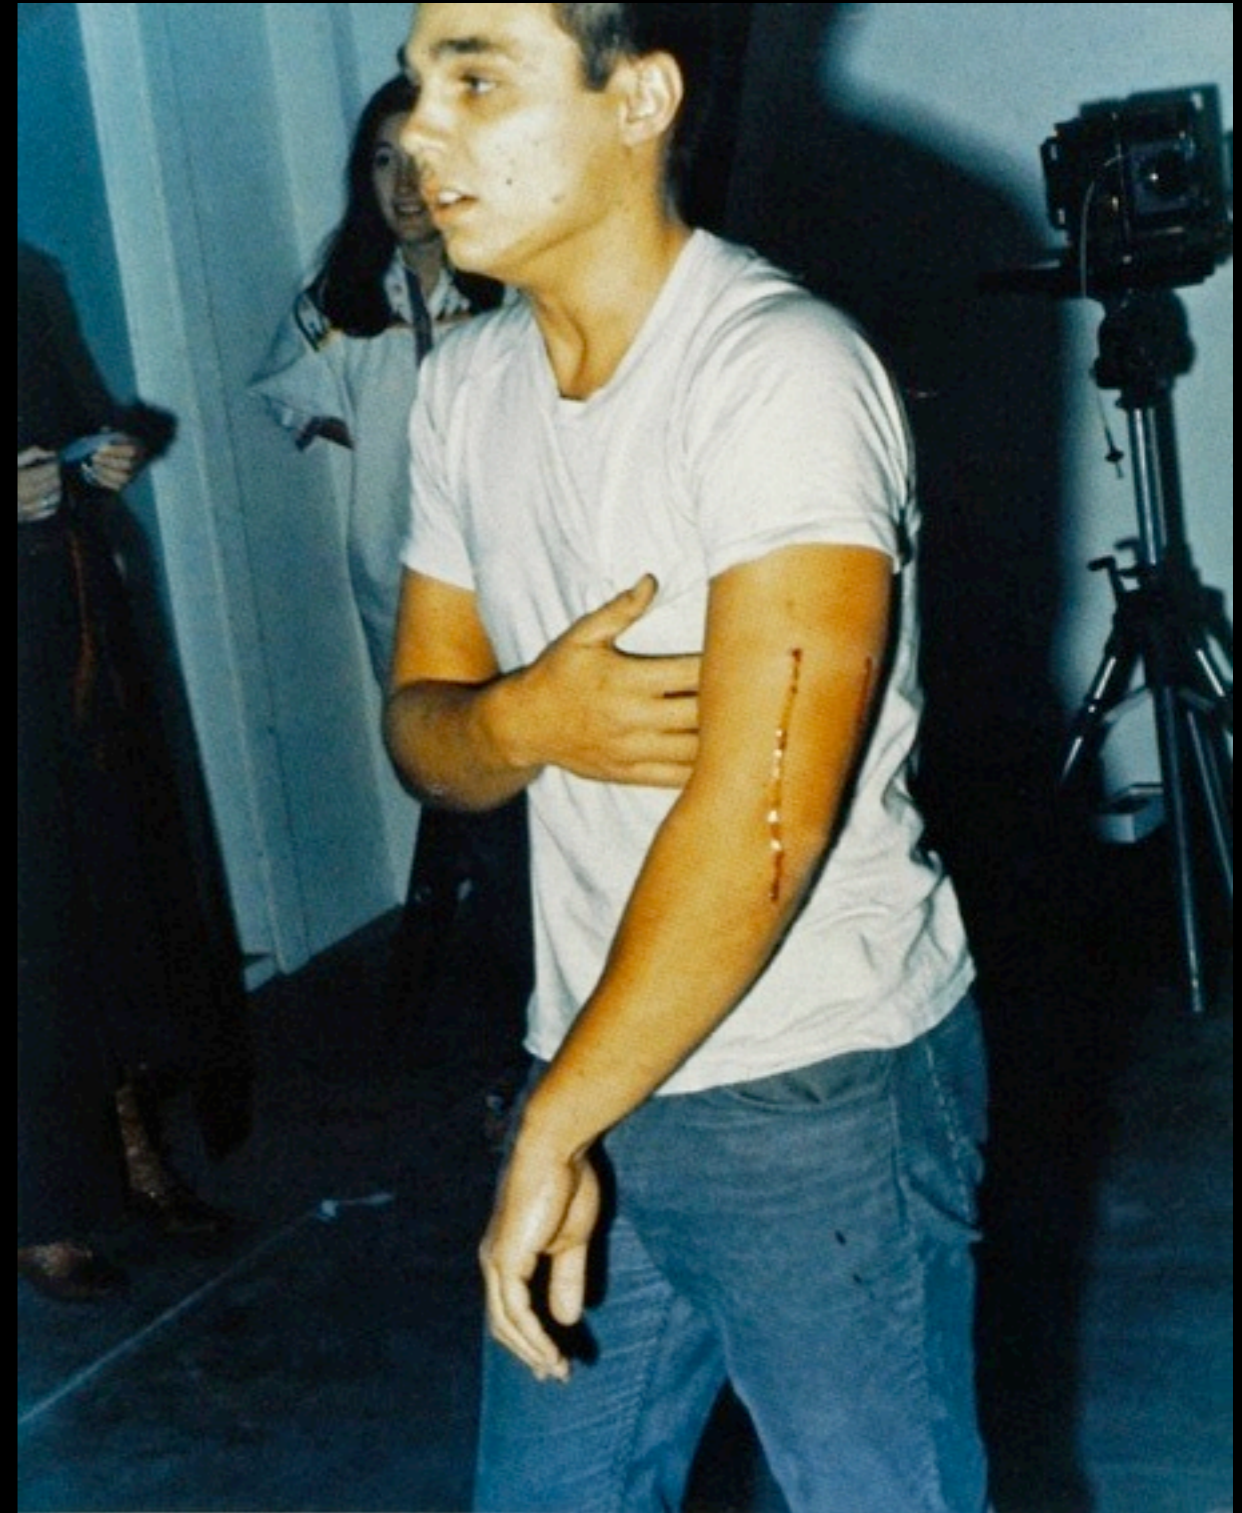

EXERCISE: Take a part from the object and add it to the "other," to form a new object and a new "other."
Repeat until there is no more object.

“...properties the presence of which ordinary judgement counts toward something’s being a work of art, and the absence of which counts against its being art:

- (1) possessing positive aesthetic properties, such as being beautiful, graceful, or elegant...;
- (2) being expressive of emotion;
- (3) being intellectually challenging...;
- (4) being formally complex and coherent;
- (5) having a capacity to convey complex meanings;
- (6) exhibiting an individual point of view;
- (7) being an exercise of creative imagination...;
- (8) being an artifact or performance which is the product of a high degree of skill;
- (9) belonging to an established artistic form...; and
- (10) being the product of an intention to make a work of art.”
