to me, Daniel ▾

Hi,

It was a pleasure to meet you at LA Zine Fest!

Playing your video game was the most immersive experience I had at Zine fest. It is wildly creative in how it deconstructs the traditional video game experience. I also think it speaks compellingly to each player's personal life and modernity though it is autobiographical. There is also an aspect of voyeurism to the game that is magnetic.

I am currently working for FLAUNT Magazine. I spoke with my editors about you and we are interested in doing a feature about you and your work.

We would get the ball rolling with a quick Q&A about your work and your experience at LA Zine Fest.

Is this something you are interested in collaborating on?

Please let me know what you think!

Thank you for your time.

Best,
Andy Chan
