

Maximizing Critique:

Improving Communication for Everyone Involved in Critical
Feedback

Jeff Hesser

Artist, Harmonix

The Metropolitan Museum of Art

Fisher-Price®

HARMONIX®

CRIT

Criticize

vs

Critique

Personal preference

Judgmental

First response

More objective

Analytical

Reflective

Strategies for improving both sides of the feedback loop:

Giving

Receiving

Strategies for improving both sides of the feedback loop:

Giving

Receiving

Goals

- Align work with the art direction
- Leave room for creative problem solving
- Encourage team spirit and cohesion
- Develop and open and honest desire for feedback
- Become a more valuable team member

Strategies for Giving Feedback:

1. Define problems before solving them
2. Describe Reasoning behind judgments

Rock Band 1 Head Style

Less effective Solution focused feedback:

“The head should be more anatomically correct.”

“Add more hard edges.”

More effective Problem Focused feedback:

"We need to create heads that are more anatomically correct but still united by a common, iconic style that fits the Rock Band world. How can we do that?"

More effective Problem Focused feedback:

"We need to create heads that are more anatomically correct but still united by a common, iconic style that fits the Rock Band world. How can we do that?"

Strategies for Giving Feedback:

1. Define problems before solving them
2. Describe Reasoning behind judgments

Rock Band 4 Main Menu Screen

Less effective Judgment Focused feedback:

"The composition sucks."

"The composition is weak."

"Why did you compose the band that way?"

More effective Experience Focused feedback:

"My eyes aren't lead from primary to secondary focal points. I find myself just stuck looking at the shape of the light on the singer's shirt."

More effective Experience Focused feedback:
“My eyes aren’t lead from primary to secondary focal points.
I find myself just stuck looking at the shape of the light on the singer’s shirt.”

Less effective Judgment Focused feedback:
"That's a poor use of camera angle."

More effective Reason Focused feedback:

"The composition as a whole should feel as energetic as the characters. Adding tilt to the camera might help. What are some other ideas?"

More effective Reason Focused feedback (tighter deadline):
“The composition as a whole should feel energetic. Adding some tilt to the camera will help.”

Describe Experience and Reasons behind judgments

Strategies for Giving Feedback:

1. Define Problems before solving them
2. Describe Reasoning behind judgments

Strategies for Giving Feedback:

1. Define Problems before solving them
2. Describe Reasoning behind judgments

Both strategies involve two steps:

1. Recognize your first response
2. Reflect and Rephrase

Strategies for Receiving Feedback:

1. Ask questions that encourage critics to:
 - Define problems before solving them
 - Describe reasons behind judgments
2. Frame the critique
3. Look for themes in the feedback

Monkey Character in Disney Fantasia: Music Evolved

Poorly phrased Solution Focused feedback:
"Make the monkey older."

Questions to Reveal the Problem behind the solution:
“How would an older monkey fit into this scene more successfully?”

Poorly phrased Judgment Focused feedback:
“The monkey is too goofy.”

Questions to Reveal the Reasons behind the judgment:

“What feelings do you think the monkey should evoke in this scene?”

“Why are those feelings important here?”

Poor feedback transformed:

“We need a monkey that fits into a narrative based on sadness, isolation and an attempt to connect.”

"We need a monkey that fits into a narrative based on sadness, isolation and an attempt to connect."

Strategies for Receiving Feedback:

1. Ask questions that encourage critics to:
 - Define problems before solving them
 - Describe reasons behind judgments
2. Frame the critique
3. Look for themes in the feedback

The Haven in Disney Fantasia: Music Evolved

Frame the discussion:

"We need to give this scene an iconic look using the elements that already exist."

Strategies for Receiving Feedback:

1. Ask questions that encourage critics to:
 - Define problems before solving them
 - Describe reasons behind judgments
2. Frame the critique
3. Look for themes in the feedback

The Nation Scene in Disney Fantasia: Music Evolved

Poorly phrased feedback Collection:

"Move the volcano back."

"The area between the city and the mountains is boring."

"Make the background trees smaller."

"Add some flying creatures in the forest."

Common Theme:

"The space feels shallow and lacks excitement."

Strategies Recap:

Strategies for GIVING feedback

- Define the problem don't solve it
- Describe the reasons or experience that lead to judgments

Strategies for RECEIVING feedback:

- Ask questions
- Focus the critique
- Look for Themes

Takeaways:

- Clearly define GOALS
- Critique don't criticize
 - All criticism is potential critique
- Recognize, Reflect and Rephrase
 - Our first reactions are often poorly phrased

Continue the conversation:

jeff.hesser@harmonixmusic.com

Twitter: @jhesser333

Wrap-Up Room:

West Hall, Level 2, Overlook 2022

