Game Loop

Earn gold to unlock heroes (from gacha)

Get high-scores with heroes

...uh repeat?

The background of the slide features two characters. On the left is Kermit the Frog, shown from the chest up, looking towards the right. On the right is a green character wearing a dark blue hoodie with the hood pulled up over their head. This character has a wide, toothy grin, showing their teeth. The background is a solid dark blue-grey color.

The Struggle

Scores are based solely on skill vs

Characters should level up

No artificial improvement

Early decision: no leveling up

Player must improve own skill

Protect the “core” gameplay values:

Highscores Must Be Fair

Retention Problem!

Low retention on release

Highscores aren't enough

Unlocked characters get boring

No goals once all unlocked

Maybe Characters Should Level Up?

Characters aren't just collectibles

Gives purpose to play unlocked characters

Gacha duplicates give experience

Sounds Easy!

Have to overhaul entire combat system

Takeaways

Think it through!

Plan it out!

Roadmaps and schedules, y'all

Push back deadlines

Take breaks!

Make Money From Your Art!

Investigate issues with retention & monetization early

A game cannot just be “good”

Make it worthwhile to keep playing!

public void BuyCharacterForActualRealWorldMoneyImNotKiddingAboutThis() {
    //holy shit give us that money
    CollusionManager.Instance.PurchasePlayer(selectedPlayer);

Crunch is bad

Don't do it

Extend or double your deadlines

Be flexible with dates

Others don't care

Goodbye Crunches?

Featuring isn't guaranteed

Update featuring has most competition

Don't assume or rely on update featuring

Regular contact with Apple doesn't guarantee a feature

Move on!
